

Turbotec joins US Green Building Council

USBGC is the leader in sustainable building practices. They promote energy conservation and cutting edge technology for the creation of new and renovated buildings. Though this technology can add an average of 15% to the cost of construction, it is estimated that this cost can be recovered in 3 years or less because of energy and resource savings.

Turbotec is looking to spread the word about the Enviro-Pak as a product that provides an alternative, energy efficient way to heat hot water while reducing energy waste.
